A screenshot of the Photoshop Layers panel. The panel is titled 'Layers' and shows a single layer named 'Kind'. The layer is currently selected and is in 'Normal' blending mode. The 'Lock' section shows an icon for locking the layer. The layer's visibility is indicated by an eye icon, which is currently turned off. The layer's thumbnail shows a blue and white checkered pattern. A blue diagonal line is drawn across the entire image, from the top left to the bottom right.

1. Click on the Layer Mask of Back Ribbons Layer
2. Use the Free Transform Tool Ctrl+(T) to modify and change the direction and position of the stripes in the back

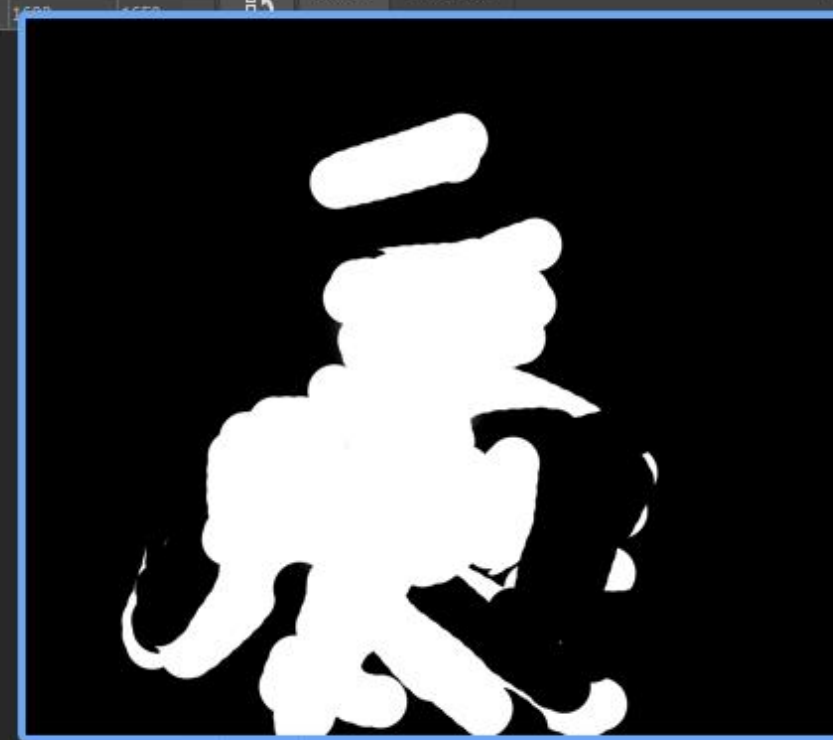

7. Paint Back Areas that you want

Using a white Brush (B) on the Layer Mask of "Reveal Back" we can bring back parts of the original selection that we want to reveal.

Use Brushes in this stage and Create your unique amazing artworks!
